Subject: ROHR-BLOG: Hero Rescue? Quick Take, Calendar

Dear Subscribers,

It looks like our hero (the US EQUITIES bull trend) actually managed to hold onto the cliff edge (key technical support Tolerance with more below) by his fingernails, as fully reviewed in Friday's ALERT!! The question now is whether US EQUITIES can fully recover back onto solid ground above the previous UP signal area that was at serious risk late last week. That has not yet quite occurred in spite of this morning's rather impressive recovery (more on all of that below as well.)

As we cautioned since last Monday, last week was not going to be a typically quiet third week of the month reporting phase into a US holiday. There were just too many central bank, supranational organization and non-governmental organization influences to allow that. And last week US EQUITIES exhibited a sense of dread in the form of a sharp selloff into that key Tolerance decision area.

As far as the previously noted psychological drivers, Europe remains a problem on the EU-Italy budget confrontation. Yet a good part of this morning's recovery may be due to the tacit resolution of the EU-UK Brexit situation. As noted many times, if a bull trend stressor is removed, the upward tendencies are likely to return with a vengeance.

This is of course enhanced by the major overshoot on US Black Friday weekend retailer sales after that group suffered last week. And the strength of US EQUITIES is fostering weakness in GOVVIES previously encouraged by the sense of potential further EQUITIES weakness.

That said, the ‘big dog’ US-China trade tiff is the critical ‘binary’ influence into any potential Trump-Xi discussion at this Friday’s G20 meeting (through Saturday.) That’s in addition to all of the typical end of month economic data late this week. Keep those seatbelts firmly fastened in spite of today’s US EQUITIES recovery.

Market Quick Take

In late October the DECEMBER S&P 500 FUTURE Broke DOWN below 2,708 from its broad weekly up channel since the February-April sharp reaction lows. As noted previous, that week’s Close below the late-May 2,675 pullback low Tolerance of the channel was by such a marginal factor as to allow subsequent recovery.

And the rally into early November after a new late-October trading low for the selloff exhibited an UP Closing Price Reversal (CPR) from the previous week’s 2,670 Close. That extended the Tolerance to the 2,675-70 range held two weeks ago, yet violated on last Tuesday’s sharp selloff. Its importance is apparent on the weekly chart from last Friday’s Close (<http://bit.ly/2PUWpWU>.) The UP ‘CPR’ into early November would be ‘Negated’ (i.e. reversed) on any Close below its 2,627 Tolerance (heavy red line) at the low of the preceding week.

That is a very important consideration with the market already below the key 2,675-70 UP CPR signal area that is also last year’s Close; that may therefore affect the potential for any ‘Santa Claus’ Rally late this year. And if the UP CPR is indeed Negated, it carries the implication that the late-October 2,603 trading low was NOT the end of the selloff.

While a further top (Head & Shoulders) evolution is possible if the early 2018 lows hold, it is very interesting that this morning’s recovery is only up to 2,675-70 so far. This remains a critical psychological trend area for whether any new current trend low is possible, or the US EQUITIES have seen the lows and will indeed attract ‘Santa Claus’ buying late this year.

The US EQUITIES weakness had also encouraged GOVVIES to predictably push up again, yet possibly not as much as the volatility of the US EQUITIES short-term implosion might have suggested. Combined with Brexit concerns and continued EU-Italy budget face off, strong sister DECEMBER BUND FUTURE was once again back above the 160.00-.30 area. Already above recent upper-160.00 area highs late last week, it is fading now. If the US EQUITIES should sink further it will likely test at least the more major 162.00-.50 area.

And weak sister DECEMBER T-NOTE FUTURE now well back above its 118-10 mid-May trading low was also pushing above higher trend resistance in the 119-00/-08 area last seen on its late-October rally prior to fading this morning. If that maintained it would have pointed to the heftier 120-00 area congestion (also now weekly MA-41.)

The same is true for DECEMBER GILT FUTURE above 122.00-.50, with next heavy congestion into the 124.00-.50 range even if it has sagged back below the 123.00 area.

Similarly in FOREIGN EXCHANGE, a 'haven' bid returning to the US DOLLAR INDEX left all others under some pressure once again, yet is reversing a bit this morning. While the US DOLLAR INDEX was once again weakening from near its mid-upper 97.00 resistance after holding the early November dip back toward its important 95.00-.50 area previously tested in mid-October, it maintains its overall up trend.

EUR/USD back below 1.1400 was also the case after the weaker-than-expected European Commission Growth Forecast two weeks ago, with next support into 1.1250-00. GBP/USD dropped from the upper end of the 1.28-1.30 area to somewhat back below it on previous negative Brexit psychology, but is now back into the low end of that range. And despite the US changeability, the previous hint of US-China rapprochement abating has encouraged AUD/USD to hold squeeze back above its historic .7200-50 area prior to dropping back into it.

It all smacks of the importance of the overall decision by the US EQUITIES. And while the EMERGING CURRENCIES are still more country-specific trends than previous, they were also enjoying a bounce from support on US-China potential that remains a key influence into the end of this week. The looming government change-beleaguered MEXICAN PESO that had seen USD/MXN drop back temporarily below its 20.00-20.20 congestion, had been back up testing the 20.50 area previous and again at present.

And that is just part of the EMERGING CURRENCY return from weakness as USD/ZAR had pushed up from below 14.00 to testing and failing from 14.50 again on its way back below 14.00. Next lower support is the 13.60-.50 area not reached earlier this month.

USD/RUB has reacted back down from above 67.00 and is back there again in the wake of imploding Crude Oil prices. Next interim support is into the 65.00 and even heftier 64.00 area congestion below. In the meantime, the still improved TURKISH LIRA has USD/TRY slipping once again from 5.50, with next support into the 5.00 area (now including weekly MA-41.)

While now obviously still a bit less relevant (as we have been noting for some time) on the standard report releases in the midst of more major global trade and political cross currents, this week's Weekly Report & Event Calendar (accessible for Sterling and higher level subscribers) is available via the www.rohr-blog.com sidebar.

And despite the critical nature of those 'macro' influences such as Wednesday's BoE Financial Stability Report, OECD International Trade Statistics and Fed Chair Powell's speech followed by Thursday's ECB Financial Stability Review and FOMC Meeting Minutes into Friday's G20 Meeting, the key late month data is going to also remain important right into that G20 meeting.
