Technical Projections and select comment

(as of the Thursday, July 11, 2013 US Close)

Equities: DJIA (cash): Reinvigorated central bank QE psych refutes all recent weakness, yet weekly MACD only back in balance (from DOWN) on approach to 15,542 May high.

RES: 15,542; 15,700 & 16,400 OSC

SUPP: 15,350; 15,235-180; 14,960-45; 14,887.50; 14,790; 14,685

SEP S&P 500 Future: Similar to DJIA, yet less convincing on whether it can overrun the Objective and mid-May DOWN CPR Tolerance at 1,673. Video at <http://bit.ly/1353RON>.

RES: 1,666-73; 1,685.50 (all time hi); 1,700-05 (OSC all-time high)

SUPP: 1,653.50; 1,645-48; 1,624-28; 1,612; 1,606-1,594 (R-gap)

DAX (cash): Interesting recovery from 7,750 and 7,660 support on ECB quantum dovish policy shift, Yet still only back up near 8,240 resistance with US in a critical position.

RES: 8,240-17; 8,300; 8,408; 8,480; 8,558 (hi); 8,870 (OSC)

SUPP: 8,151.87; 8,100-17; 8,030-75; 7,940-00; 7,750; 7,660-00

FTSE 100 (cash): Deeper reaction than DAX, yet even back below 6,100 still held its major 6,000 area channel support. Stalling into 6,600 resistance with US in a critical position.

RES: 6,628-00; ; 6,700-54 ('07 hi); 6,838; 6,950

SUPP: 6,532-00; 6,420; 6,377; 6,330-00; 6,275; 6,230-10; 6,100

SEP NIKKEI Future: Most interesting that the major US equities recovery only fomented a rally back to 14,620 congestion & Fib resistance. All equities weekly MACDs still DOWN.

RES: 14,620; 14,750; 15,000; 15,250; 15,550; 16,150; 16,450

SUPP: 14,325; 13,950-14,000; 13,800; 13,560-00; 12,950-13,080

Government Bond Futures: Push higher on weak May data was impressive, and even US economic data softening supported resilient holding near top of the rally until May US Employment report. Subsequent Fed vacillation exacerbated by tapering consideration, but that is now reversed by FOMC minutes and Mr. Bernanke's clear focus on economic contingencies rather than any preset calendar. And as much as that has actually assisted equities even more, it is also a plus for govies in the context of recent weak European and Chinese data. With Gilt and Bund firm, watch whether T-note can escape 126-16 area.

SEP T-note: RES: 126-16; 127-06; 128-01/127-20; 128-16; 129-08/-02

SUPP: 126-00/125-21; 125-00/124-24; 124-00; 123-04/-16; 122-30

SEP UK Gilt: RES: 112.50; 113.61-.28; 114.00; 114.50; 115.67-.34; 116.15

SUPP: 111.75-.30; 110.56; 110.20-109.84; 108.75; 108; 106.75-.50;

SEP Bund: RES: 143.00; 143.50-.75; 144.00-.34; 145.00-.20

SUPP: 142.30-.62; 141.70; 141.30-.00; 140.00-139.60; 138.41 (SEP lo)

Technical Projections and select comment

(as of the Thursday, July 11, 2013 US Close)

December 2013 Short Money Forward Futures: What can we say? Since early 2011 short money contracts had great UPSide run defying all the central bank hike opinions. That's the history of deep discounts in forwards, even as rally sputtered on strength of the equities on QE influences. However, the more important decision now evolves to the relative expectations for real world yields instead of base rate expectations. And that was significantly shifted last week by the ECB evolution to greater QE provision psychology. While that was seen previous as an inflation risk, with Germany weakening there was no complaint from the typically cautious German financial and political class. As such, the Short Money far forwards had a real bounce, and we will be shifting to those soon to monitor and project the trend activity. In the meantime, the overall recovery of forwards also empowers the recovery in the long end by affecting the curve expectations.

Foreign Exchange: US Dollar

USD INDEX: It was interesting to see daily MACD DOWN reversed on the recent swing back above .8200. And yet, the attempt to push above the more major mid-.8400 area resistance stalled into Wednesday, and fully reversed on the renewed consideration the US was 'easy' in wake of the FOMC/Bernanke. Now mid-.8200 area support once again.

RES: .8300; .8335-55; .8450; .8516; .8625-36; ; .8695; .8750

EUR/USD: Daily MACD back DOWN since 1.3150 failure, yet attempted 1.2800 DOWN Break below odd weekly H&S Top Neckline has seen sharp rally. Unexpected EUR/USD strength is sign it may be better than many suspect. 1.3150 is key resistance once again.

GBP/USD: Serial failures below key 1.5233 and 1.5000 area looked ugly, yet firm holding activity against the 1.5000 area was positive sign. Now back above 1.5000 area once again after dropping below it also points up critical nature of near term USD decision.

Foreign Exchange: US Dollar (continued)

USD/JPY: Even with BoJ aggressive QE acceleration there was likely only so far the yen could go in the wake of the JGB debacle finally weighing on NIKKEI. Below 100 and 99 left a 98.80-.30 weekly channel DOWN Break that was Negated, and only back down to it on recent selloff. Now 99.80 fresh daily channel DOWN Break is near term key area.

AUD/USD: Commodity currency still looks bad on MACDs DOWN on DOWN Break below .9850-00, with .9581-37 and .9388 major low failures. Now below interim .9175 support with only modest squeeze back above it, needing to get through .9388 or still weak.

RES: .9388 (OCT '11 low); .9581-37 (MAY '12 low); .9850-10

SUPP: .9175; .8927; .8867; .8770-50; .8578-54; .8316; .8220; .8050

USD/CAD: Back above 1.00 area congestion and weekly MA-41 since late January led to push back above 1.0100-1.0085, and 1.00 still support on May selloff. Even weakness now back below low 1.0500s only nearing congestion and weekly MA-13 at 1.0270-1.0300.

USD/CHF: Repeated previous holds at .9250 Fibonacci reinstated after February recovery led to MAR-APR failed test of mid-.9500 resistance. The resurgence above .9550-00 made .9780-.9800 next test once again, which failed. Back in .9500 area for near term decision.

RES: .9500-50; .9651-00; .9780-.9800; 1.0000-1.0067

Foreign Exchange: Cross Rates: Euro currency weakness reversed, yet only dominant secular trend is continued weak economic data weighing on Australian dollar; and that raised questions about the real condition of the Chinese economy. It is a bit of a surprise there is still no strength there while equities trend seems to signal better general global economic conditions in wake of reinvigorated QE psychology. Policy-driven Japanese yen weakness still in force in spite of recent reaction on USD plop, which also highlights the weakness of Asia, where the Aussie is still even leading the yen down: ugly.

Foreign Exchange: Cross Rates: (continued)

EUR/GBP: Pound regained strong sister status since mid-March general basing after the long slide, yet back to weak sister of late. Repeated euro failures at .8800 resistance led to drop below .8600 as well, and even back above it now weekly MACD only balanced.

Energy & Gold

August Crude Oil: Strength above 97.50-98.00 resistance fueled by global instability, yet also the equities resilience. That's reinforced now by the futures gaps above 100 and 104 now, which will act as tech support. All trend indications UP; 110 area next resistance.

RES: 105.35-104.60; 106.49; 109.44; 110.55; 113.50

August Gold: Mid-February major weekly downward channel (from last October's high) DOWN Acceleration below the 1,590 return line finally caught up with the yellow metal, in spite of the extended (albeit quiet) reaction back above it in the second half of March. It is not a huge surprise that once it knocked out 1,547 congestion and more major 1,530-26 19-month lows it was vulnerable to a slide toward long term support in upper 1,200 area. Cracking 1,355 March low looked stale, and failure below 1,288-75 major monthly channel and Fib support is fresh DOWN Break. Back there now is a key test of the down trend.
