Subject: ROHR TREND ALERT!!

Dear Alert Service Subscriber,

This is an early critical short-term view based on market conditions:

All of the EQUITIES being impacted by problems with the profit outlook and concerns over the balance sheet stability of European banks seems to have now been exacerbated by disappointment with what Fed Chair Yellen had to say Wednesday... especially on the next likely FOMC rate move still being up (regardless of the exact timing.)

As we noted in our Follow-Up ROHR TREND ALERT!! near the end of her testimony near 12:00 CST yesterday, MARCH S&P 500 FUTURE had already been back up to last week's Close 1,875.30 Close yet had also weakened temporarily below the major 1,865-60 area. What transpired after she was done with her House Financial Services Committee Q&A was going to be critical for how the short-term trend performed. Any weakness back below the 1,865-60 support and more importantly its Tolerance in the 1,850 area was going to be telling.

Here's the critical consideration today: And that failure has left MARCH S&P 500 FUTURE gapping back below interim support at 1,831 to the next lower interim support at 1,813. While there is further interim support in the 1,800 area, the more major lower supports on the overall failure below 1,865-60 are not until the 1,777-65 area, 1,750 and the 1,732-26 major Fibonacci retracement and February 2014 trading low.
