Subject: ROHR TREND ALERT!!

Dear Alert Service Subscriber,
This is a critical short-term view:

First of all, apologies for the modest delay in this morning's email Alert due to some technical difficulties. Yet everything is conforming to the significant background for the equities weakening after the MARCH S&P 500 FUTURE stalled into some key resistance out of Wednesday into Thursday. Rather than repeat all of that background here, please refer to Thursday's Rohr Trend ALERT!! in the archives at www.rohr-blog.com.

Here's the critical consideration today: MARCH S&P 500 FUTURE ability to recover back above the major 1,865-60 area was very important. Tuesday's ability to post an 1,886 UP Break out of its short-term trend channel resistance was also telling, as it encouraged a push above 1,895-1,902 resistance all the way back up into the 1,925-32 range.

However, it did appear to be stalling into that area, and left a 1,922 DOWN Break out of the aggressive near term up channel support early Thursday morning. That is now the team resistance this side of the 1,925-32 range. However, at least so far today it (not surprisingly) has also held well on the early test of the 1,895-1,902 congestion area. That may bode well for a retest of 1,922 or higher resistances. If it should fail instead, keep the 1,886 UP Break in mind this side of the more major 1,865-60 area.

[For those of you who are subscribers, see the latest TrendView video analysis at www.rohr-blog.com for more on the current trend evolution, and last Tuesday evening's Commentary: Fear & Loathing in Marketland. Most of the latter that anticipated the post-Yellen testimony weakness (based on the Fed's 'normalcy bias') is available to even Silver echelon subscribers. The videos and latest Market Observations (updated Wednesday morning below Tuesday's video analysis) are reserved for Gold and Platinum subscribers.]
