Subject: Follow-Up ROHR TREND ALERT!!

Dear Alert Service Subscriber,
This is a critical short-term view:

Here was the critical consideration today: As noted earlier, the key this morning was still that last Thursday's EQUITIES strength put the MARCH S&P 500 FUTURE back out above the 1,925-32 resistance, which also still represents a Negation of the 1,922 DOWN Break from the previous Thursday.

The higher resistances were into the interim 1,950 area, so it's no surprise it was able to reach that once the trend reverted back to stronger activity after last week's Tuesday-Wednesday 'hiccup'. While the next interim resistance in the 1,958-62 area was tested Friday morning, the market dropped back below 1,950 later on Friday and continued to weaken Monday.

And as we expected the EQUITIES still want to hold pullbacks, that is exactly what we saw on the MARCH S&P 500 FUTURE holding support back down into violated 1,925-32 resistance on Monday. As such, the gap higher this morning back up to 1,950 was a vindication of that area as support, and also put the bulls back in charge of the trend.

Follow-Up NOW: Now out above the interim 1,958-62 area the next major resistances are 1,970-75 and 2,010-20, with interim levels at 1,986 (top of gap up to Wednesday January 6th Close) and the 1,995 bottom of another early January gap.
