

Alan Rohrbach

From: ROHR Alert <rohralert@gmail.com>
Sent: Thursday, September 29, 2016 8:46 AM
To: undisclosed-recipients:
Subject: ROHR TREND ALERT!!

Dear Alert Service Subscriber,
This is a critical short-term view:

OPEC to the rescue!! There was a wave of Fed-speak from Wednesday morning through the evening that included the most prominent hawks. However, around 13:00 CDT the OPEC production cuts agreement was announced, sending both energy markets and equities higher. This was somewhat unexpected due to Saudi Arabia's previous policy of pumping until it hurt marginal producers as well as its longstanding aversion to working with rival Iran.

This deal is given more of a chance of near-term success due to it being a sign that the Saudis have reached their limit of financial pain (for now) from lower priced oil. Whether this is sustainable is yet to be seen. Yet for now it removes the threat to the equities of further oil patch bankruptcies on a WTI Crude drop to or below $40 that might have created some sort of crisis.

And on the extended reaction to the US Presidential debate, Team Trump is allowing he might become more aggressively critical of Secretary Clinton. This is a mistake. As we noted in Wednesday's 'Advantage Clinton' www.rohr-blog.com post, his failure was not being more focused on the details of his plan. Any expanded criticism of her will not likely assist his campaign. And the equities will likely react well if the less disruptive Clinton gains ground.

This is the critical consideration:

We have already reviewed at length the importance of the 2,160-55 area due to the lead contract S&P 500 future swings out of mid-July through early September. And the December S&P 500 future being back above it leaves it as support once again, albeit dependent on no immediate failure of the OPEC cuts agreement.

As far as lower supports, we once again note the previous December S&P 500 future violation of nominal early August 2,141.50 trading low support was telling, leading to the early September test of the more prominent 2,120 and 2,105-00 congestion areas that remain major lower supports.

Higher resistances remain 2,185-90 weekly Oscillator and hefty congestion, along with the extended weekly Oscillator resistance moving up to 2,220 this week (and 2,225 into next.)

[For those of you who are subscribers, see the latest analysis and Market Observations write-up at www.rohr-blog.com for more on the current trend evolution. Market Observations are available to Gold and Platinum subscribers.]

NOTICE: The Rohr International, Inc. research team or its principals may already have entered positions or have orders working based on this view.

Thanks for your interest.

This Current ROHR TREND ALERT!! will be available soon via the sidebar at www.rohr-blog.com for Platinum echelon subscribers.

Please reply 'Unsubscribe' if you no longer wish to receive these emails.

Contact: rohralert@gmail.com

This review of market positions and all other information is strictly for educational purposes. This information is provided without consideration of portfolio requirements, suitability for financial risk, or psychological state of any recipient. Any use of this information to implement actual trades or investments is the sole responsibility of the individual or entity authorizing that decision. This waives your right to any claim of explicit or incidental liability for financial loss or forgone profit against Rohr International, Inc. and any informational contributors under all circumstances. Information contained herein may have already been disseminated to others who may have acted upon it. Implicit in the Rohr educational services is the understanding that principals or employees of Rohr may have already taken positions. By review of the Rohr Alerts and/or Rohr Views and all attendant information you confirm receipt of them as educational content, as well as agreement with all of the stipulations articulated above.

A service of Rohr International, Inc.

© 2016 All international rights reserved. Redistribution strictly prohibited without written consent