

Alan Rohrbach

From: ROHR Alert <rohralert@gmail.com>
Sent: Thursday, October 27, 2016 8:36 AM
To: undisclosed-recipients:
Subject: ROHR TREND ALERT!!

Dear Alert Service Subscriber,
This is a critical short-term view:

We are just back from our brief holiday during the early-mid part of this week

The volatile movement has shifted into the govies. On the other hand the equities remain as subdued as the past couple of weeks in spite of an upside flourish at the top of this week. This is interesting once again in the wake of the somewhat improved international economic data that is behind the yields moving up again (i.e. also government bonds coming under pressure.)

Therefore the concern in equities might be that there is a 'good news is bad news' component to improved data out of Europe, which might be more conducive to an FOMC rate hike in December. After this morning's disappointing US Durable Goods Orders (and subsets) Friday's expectations for a rebound to 2.50% in the first look at US Q3 GDP after a very lackluster first half (around 1.00%) will be the next critical influence into month's end on Monday.

This is (still) the critical consideration:

We had already reviewed at length the importance of the mid-July through early September 2,160-55 low end of the trading range that was subsequently violated by the lead contract S&P 500 future. The December S&P 500 future did manage to recover sharply from September 12th overnight trading below the 2,120 support down to near the much more major 2,105-00, yet failed back up around the 2,155 area on that Monday's Close. And subsequent rally failures into that area finally took their toll on 'Fear of Fed' noted prior to the FOMC minutes two weeks ago.

While the failure below 2,141.50 area stalled on the rally, it was not necessarily all that negative until violation of 2,120 two weeks ago Thursday morning. That pointed to that Thursday's test of more major 2,105-00 area that the market neared prior to rallying back strongly. Also now back above 2,120 means 2,141.50 area (with a Tolerance to 2,136 if it is above it) will remain key area again this side of 2,155-60; especially after this week's failed early push above it.

[For those of you who are subscribers, see the latest analysis and Market Observations write-up at www.rohr-blog.com for more on the current trend evolution. Market Observations are available to Gold and Platinum subscribers.]

NOTICE: The Rohr International, Inc. research team or its principals may already have entered positions or have orders working based on this view.

Thanks for your interest.

This Current ROHR TREND ALERT!! will be available soon via the sidebar at www.rohr-blog.com for Platinum echelon subscribers.

Please reply 'Unsubscribe' if you no longer wish to receive these emails.

Contact: rohralert@gmail.com

This review of market positions and all other information is strictly for educational purposes. This information is provided without consideration of portfolio requirements, suitability for financial risk, or psychological state of any recipient. Any use of this information to implement actual trades or investments is the sole responsibility of the individual or entity authorizing that decision. This waives your right to any claim of explicit or incidental liability for financial loss or forgone profit against Rohr International, Inc. and any informational contributors under all circumstances. Information contained herein may have already been disseminated to others who may have acted upon it. Implicit in the Rohr educational services is the understanding that principals or employees of Rohr may have already taken positions. By review of the Rohr Alerts and/or Rohr Views and all attendant information you confirm receipt of them as educational content, as well as agreement with all of the stipulations articulated above.

A service of Rohr International, Inc.

© 2016 All international rights reserved. Redistribution strictly prohibited without written consent