Dear Alert Service Subscriber,

This is a critical short-term view (extended to discuss background factors):

Continued Trump Trauma weighed on the equities once again on Wednesday, even if it might ultimately be misguided. For much more on our views regarding the real election implications see Wednesday morning's ROHR Alert!!

We assume Mr. Trump's resurgence in the pre-election polls is the only reason that can explain the recent equities weakness. While there have been extensive central bank rate decision meetings this week, those are over with the Bank of England Inflation Report press conference this morning. The data remains mediocre, with more to come in the US Services PMI and Durable Goods this morning. Yet that semisoft data is part of what still restrained the FOMC in Wednesday afternoon's no action and statement.

So the Trump Trauma is all that explains the equities' bout of nerves.

This is the critical consideration:

December S&P 500 future mid-October failure below 2,141.50 area stalled there on the subsequent rallies. Yet it was not all that negative until violation of 2,120 three weeks ago Thursday morning. That pointed to that Thursday's retest of more major 2,105-00 area that the market neared prior to rallying back strongly... Closing back above 2,120.

Also Closing back above 2,120 after the FBI selloff last Friday seemed to reinforce it as interim support until Tuesday's response to further revelations about the Clinton's and the incestuous relationships between their foundation, the Democratic National Committee, Hillary's time as Secretary of State, etc.

The Trump Trauma then caused the next violation of not just 2,120, but also 2,105-00. That said, there is a good deal of 'internal' congestion below it in the 2,070 area, which is the Tolerance of the 2,105-00 support. Much below it the market is well back into the broad lower trading range, and in that case we suspect a drop back to the low 2,000 area (or even lower levels) would become much more likely with only 2,050-45 area interim congestion along the way.
