Subject:	ROHR TREND ALERT!!

Dear Alert Service Subscriber,
This is a critical short-term view:

As noted last Thursday morning, Fed Day turned out to quite the radical affair… and then again not so much. While not taking anything away from US equities reassertion of real strength, it would have been unreasonable to expect a more hawkish indication from the FOMC and Fed Chair Yellen in the face of the current stall in the Trump reform agenda.

Anyone wanting a more extensive dissection of that can review our reasoning prior to Wednesday's FOMC announcements and press conference in the www.rohr-blog.com post that morning (minimum of Silver level subscription required), and the follow up Thursday morning.

In a nutshell, as the full Trump agenda is presently under the cloud of stalled healthcare reform, there is not yet any stronger growth that can very likely bring higher inflation. While it might seem a bit perverse, the US healthcare reform impasse is therefore of huge benefit to the Fed and Chair Yellen that wanted to remain more circumspect… as they have. Yet as we suspected might occur, US equities are back down to pre-FOMC announcement levels on those concerns.

This is the critical consideration:

Due to sustained aggressive increases in weekly MA-41 (as it loses old lower Closes from the early 2016 selloff) June S&P 500 future (now front month) extended weekly Oscillator levels are back to moving up roughly $7 each week. Most important at present is the extended weekly Oscillator resistance above the 2,300 area rises to 2,369-74 this week, also consistent with the recent 2,370 area congestion over-under the market had pushed back above last week.

However, even if it fails back below the 2,370 area, the lower congestion supports and Oscillator areas are into the interim 2,350 and 2,320 congestion and the more major 2,300 area.

And if it resumes the trend higher from near-term support, the ultimate Oscillator threshold is up into the 2,399-2,404 range (weekly MA-41 plus 190-195) this week. That is also consistent with the recent 2,401 new front month S&P 500 all-time high. That sort or Oscillator extension has only been seen during extreme rallies like into early April 1999.
