

Alan Rohrbach

From: ROHR Alert <rohralert@gmail.com>
Sent: Tuesday, May 30, 2017 9:23 AM
To: undisclosed-recipients:
Subject: ROHR TREND ALERT!!

Dear Alert Service Subscriber,

Happy meets Friendly was a boon for US equities. As noted since last Wednesday, there was a 'hysterical headline hiatus' (also a www.rohr-blog.com post title) while President Trump was on his extended foreign trip. Please refer to last Tuesday's ALERT!! for more details. That left less chance the scripted nature of his communications during the trip would open up new self-inflicted wounds.

However even as he had barely returned to the US into Memorial Day, he could not resist getting back to heavy tweeting. This time it is on what he claims is the 'phony' nature of the investigation of Jared Kushner's contact with Russian officials to set up 'back channel' (i.e. unofficial) communications. So what's the big deal? Quite simply it is that the President is tweeting again. And in the past that has triggered enough distraction to weigh on progress of the important Trump administration tax reforms and infrastructure stimulus legislative agenda.

While last Wednesday's 'friendly' FOMC meeting minutes alluded to continued growth that means it is likely raise rates again in June, it is also still a gradualist approach (which even govies are liking for now on weakish US economic data.) That's a Friendly Fed indication for US equities, where the Fed rightfully asserts that even any further gradual base rate increases remain accommodative. Happy may be gone, so it will be interesting to see if Friendly underpins US equities.

This is the critical consideration:

The background remains that due to sustained increases in weekly MA-41, June S&P 500 future extended weekly Oscillator levels are still moving up roughly $5 each week in spite of the selloff since March 1st. It was important the extended weekly Oscillator threshold above the 2,300 area rose to 2,369-74 in mid-March.

After it failed below the 2,370 area and interim 2,350 congestion in mid-March, 2,370-75 was exceeded again by late April, which it remained above in early May; and importantly both weekly MA-9 and MA-13 were up into the 2,365-70 area. While those were temporarily violated on the mid-May selloff, pushing back above them later that same week was a strong sign.

Higher resistances remained around the 2,401 March 1st front month futures high, with a buffer to that same week's early 2,404.50 next all-time prior to the selloff. Now that June S&P 500 future has Closed above those levels, the next Oscillator resistance is up into the 2,425-30 range this week. And the ultimate Oscillator resistance (last seen at the early March high) is up to 2,455-60.

Of course this is all in the wake of the market holding 2,350 area congestion on that Mid-May selloff. It held the 2,347.50 fine line level in that area, which was the April 21st weekly Close prior to the gap up in the wake of the positive round one result of the French election. And that it held in overnight trading right before that Thursday's opening was impressive at the bottom of such a sharp selloff.

[For those of you who are subscribers, see the latest analysis and Market Observations write-up at www.rohr-blog.com for more on the current trend evolution. Market Observations are available to Gold and Platinum subscribers.]

NOTICE: The Rohr International, Inc. research team or its principals may already have entered positions or have orders working based on this view.

Thanks for your interest.

This Current ROHR TREND ALERT!! will be available soon via the sidebar at www.rohr-blog.com for Platinum echelon subscribers.

Please reply 'Unsubscribe' if you no longer wish to receive these emails.

Contact: rohralert@gmail.com

This review of market positions and all other information is strictly for educational purposes. This information is provided without consideration of portfolio requirements, suitability for financial risk, or psychological state of any recipient. Any use of this information to implement actual trades or investments is the sole responsibility of the individual or entity authorizing that decision. This waives your right to any claim of explicit or incidental liability for financial loss or forgone profit against Rohr International, Inc. and any informational contributors under all circumstances. Information contained herein may have already been disseminated to others who may have acted upon it. Implicit in the Rohr educational services is the understanding that principals or employees of Rohr may have already taken positions. By review of the Rohr Alerts and/or Rohr Views and all attendant information you confirm receipt of them as educational content, as well as agreement with all of the stipulations articulated above.

A service of Rohr International, Inc.

© 2017 All international rights reserved. Redistribution strictly prohibited without written consent