

Alan Rohrbach

From: ROHR Alert <rohralert@gmail.com>
Sent: Monday, July 03, 2017 8:41 AM
To: undisclosed-recipients:
Subject: ROHR TREND ALERT!!

Dear Subscribers,

As a reminder, US markets Close early today ahead of Tuesday's Independence Day July 4th holiday, including the New York Stock Exchange at 13:00 EDT. Happy Independence day to our US readers.

Last week's very active an end of month economic releases were overshadowed by the intense additional influences as a driver for the trends. And that explains a lot about US equities weakness last Tuesday into Wednesday's sharp recovery that then weakened sharply again on Thursday. That was not surprising, in the context of Wednesday's reversal of hawkish implications from the ECB and BoE. That was of course after Mario Draghi sounded more hawkish last Tuesday along with Governor Carney at the BoE Financial Stability Report press conference.

Yet we still believe the real selloff in the US equities (and weakness of the US dollar) were both reinforced by Majority Leader McConnell announcing the critical US Senate healthcare reform vote anticipated by the end of last week would be delayed until after the July Fourth holiday. Just to be clear, that is not just a single day: it is all of this week, reconvening on July 10th.

So in addition to the Senate version seeming to have even more trouble getting passed than the contentious House version, that has been further exacerbated once again by more antagonistic tweets from President Trump. Those have more members of his own political party turning against him at a time when his legislative agenda needs all the help he can get. That once again puts tax reform and stimulus plans at risk, along with chances the US economy can accelerate to the level of growth consistent with the higher US equities expectations. That is the bottom line discussed in the Wednesday, June 21st Rohr-Blog "Commentary: Equities Excess?" post.

This is the critical consideration:

It was obvious US equities had indeed stalled against the higher 2,450-55 area weekly Oscillator resistance, which moves up to 2,460-65 this week. And last Tuesday's weakness meant the September S&P 500 future violated the 2,430-25 interim support that it has churned broadly above and below since then.

That near term resistance was violated again on Wednesday's less hawkish central bank communication prior to dropping below it again on Thursday, and it is pushing modestly back above it again on this morning's relatively friendly fundamental influences (as we await US Manufacturing PMI and Construction Spending.) Yet as noted last week, It was important again that the old March and May 2,405-00 all-time highs were the more major support. And that area held very well prior to a strong bounce last Thursday. That reinforces it as key lower support, as the front month S&P 500 weekly MA-13 has also moved up to 2,400.

[For those of you who are subscribers, see the latest analysis and Market Observations write-up at www.rohr-blog.com for more on the current trend evolution. Market Observations are available to Gold and Platinum subscribers.]

NOTICE: The Rohr International, Inc. research team or its principals may already have entered positions or have orders working based on this view.

Thanks for your interest.

This Current ROHR TREND ALERT!! will be available soon via the sidebar at www.rohr-blog.com for Platinum echelon subscribers.

Please reply 'Unsubscribe' if you no longer wish to receive these emails.

Contact: rohralert@gmail.com

This review of market positions and all other information is strictly for educational purposes. This information is provided without consideration of portfolio requirements, suitability for financial risk, or psychological state of any recipient. Any use of this information to implement actual trades or investments is the sole responsibility of the individual or entity authorizing that decision. This waives your right to any claim of explicit or incidental liability for financial loss or forgone profit against Rohr International, Inc. and any informational contributors under all circumstances. Information contained herein may have already been disseminated to others who may have acted upon it. Implicit in the Rohr educational services is the understanding that principals or employees of Rohr may have already taken positions. By review of the Rohr Alerts and/or Rohr Views and all attendant information you confirm receipt of them as educational content, as well as agreement with all of the stipulations articulated above.

A service of Rohr International, Inc.

© 2017 All international rights reserved. Redistribution strictly prohibited without written consent