Alan Rohrbach

From: ROHR Alert <rohralert@gmail.com>
Sent: Tuesday, March 15, 2016 8:45 AM
To: undisclosed-recipients:
Subject: ROHR TREND VIEW

Dear Alert Service Subscriber,
We are still circumspect on the MARCH S&P 500 FUTURE.

First of all, for anyone already trading the JUNE S&P 500 FUTURE, simply deduct $10 from the prices cited for the March contract. While the March contract expires on Thursday's Close, we stuck with it until now due to the lack of much chart and indicator history on the June contract until very near to the actual expiration.

Failing early Thursday from the 2,010 level in spite of surprising aggressiveness of the ECB QE moves looked negative on the weakness back below interim technical levels in the 1,996 area and 1,985. However, as noted in Thursday's 11:00 Follow-Up ALERT!!, the MARCH S&P 500 FUTURE failure to get out above that early 2,010 high still only left it dropping back down to its next test of the far more critical 1,975-70 that it failed to provide earlier last week.

Reinforcing that this remained important support, and that it seemed to hold initially, left the bears on the defensive after lunch (US time.) So once it was back above 1,986 on Thursday's Close it left the bulls back in control of the trend.

Current Considerations: That said, the MARCH S&P 500 FUTURE current swing back up to the top of the 2,010-20 range warranted the caution we expressed in Monday's VIEW. While it is still looking good on current 'Goldilocks' psychology into this week's central bank rate meetings, it will need to be reassessed after the FOMC statement and projections revisions at 13:00 Wednesday followed by Chair Yellen's press conference beginning 30 minutes later.

For now it is best to respect the current stall into the top of the 2,010-20 range, which was after all also the top of a two day $50 rally. If it should Close above that level, higher resistances are up in the 2,035, 2,050 and 2,060 areas, with the ultimate resistance not until 2,075-85.

The negative factors that we suspect can still weigh on equities were explored at length in the previous www.rohr-blog.com "Equities' Golidilocks Psychology" post, with review of those also in our letter that the Letters Editor at the Financial Times was kind enough to post in the FTWeekend edition a week ago Saturday at http://bit.ly/1nnDW1B.

[For those of you who are subscribers, see the latest TrendView video analysis at www.rohr-blog.com for more on the technical trend indications and an extended macro-fundamental influences discussion. It is available to all Gold and Platinum echelon subscribers along with the Market Observations.]

Thanks for your interest.

This Current ROHR TREND VIEW will be available soon via the sidebar at www.rohr-blog.com for Platinum echelon subscribers.

Contact: rohralert@gmail.com

This review of market positions and all other information is strictly for educational purposes. This information is provided without consideration of portfolio requirements, suitability for financial risk, or psychological state of any recipient. Any use of this information to implement actual trades or investments is the sole responsibility of the individual or entity authorizing that decision. This waives your right to any claim of explicit or incidental liability for financial loss or forgone profit against Rohr International, Inc. and any informational contributors under all circumstances. Information contained herein may have already been disseminated to others who may have acted upon it. Implicit in the Rohr educational services is the understanding that principals or employees of Rohr may have already taken positions. By review of the Rohr Alerts and/or Rohr Views and all attendant information you confirm receipt of them as educational content, as well as agreement with all of the stipulations articulated above.