Dear Alert Service Subscriber,

We remain circumspect on the JUNE S&P 500 FUTURE.

Recent trend activity has been very interesting for the JUNE S&P 500 FUTURE. That it recovered from below some key support on Thursday in spite of the recent "Fear of Fed" would seem to be squeezing the bears for now. Whether this amounts to a more definitive return to a bullish trend or is temporary nervousness is yet to be seen.

Here's the critical consideration today: The June S&P 500 future late April weakness below 2,075-78 key support was especially telling. That was the 'Negation' of the 2,078 major weekly chart channel UP Break.

More recently once again below next lower critical support into the mid-April 2,060-55 area mid-April gap higher meant it was likely headed into a further selloff. That was also where it stalled once again last Wednesday prior to the post-FOMC minutes release selloff. Yet for now the next important lower interim support at 2,035-32 has held with some slippage last Thursday morning.

That is indeed very important, because the weakness below that area was supposed to be a DOWN Break from a major daily Head & Shoulders Top. The squeeze back above it could point to a somewhat sustained further filling out of the pattern to the upside into (or even somewhat above) the 2,055-60 area. Next lower (and more major) support remains in the 2,020-10 area once again.

It is likely best to wait for some further consolidation prior to attempting any fresh definitive Evolutionary Trend View.
